Coleman Board of Trade Proposes Picnic Grounds

The monthly supper meeting of the Coleman Board of Trade was held in the Grand Union banquet room on Tuesday evening, with a very good attendance on hand to attend to the business at hand.

President W. Holyk expressed delight in noting how well this meeting was attended and stated that there was considerable important business to consider at this meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Mr. Hill noted that there was a motion on the books that had not been seconded, and stated that this had probably come about by the discussion which had followed the moving of the motion. He felt at this time the motion should be seconded so as action could be taken. As the mover of the motion was not present, it was felt that this motion should be tabled until next meeting when it was hoped that he would be on hand to explain the motion in full.

A letter was read from the Greyhound Bus Co. in regards to the moving of the Bus Depot, in which they stated that they had moved the Depot to the Little Chief Service Station because of the following reasons:

1. Modern Cafe did not wish to continue the Depot. 2. The hill leading out of town in winter. 3. Parking problems, whereby passengers had to cross the street.

The letter went on to state that no action of the town had forced the moving of the Depot, and that if a suitable place was found in the town proper they would gladly move the Depot back. At this point the members were informed that Mr. Jim Wilkie had offered his business place as a Depot and would do all in his power to assist in keeping the bus stop in the town proper. This offer has been forwarded to the Greyhound authorities.

The big item on the agenda was the proposed building of picnic grounds and a shelter in the town park area. It was explained at this time that no representation had been made to the town council as yet but would be done in the very near future. Plans for the shelter had been drawn by Mr. O. Celli, and it was stated that these plans were a copy of a picnic shelter in Waterton Lakes park. Mr. W. Holyk stated that considerable material had been donated by the sawmills and by other business men in this area. The exact plans or the shelter were being obtained from Waterton. It was also stated that the Hon. Gordon Taylor, Minister of Highways, and Mr. Kovach, M.L.A. had assured all possible help would be given this project.

Coleman Man Given $5,250 Damages Following Traffic Accident In 1953

Under the terms of an order issued by Mr. Justice Wilson of the Supreme Court of Alberta in Edmonton, March 7, the provincial treasurer has been ordered to pay out of the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund, the sum of $5,250.30 to Lawrence McGillivray of Coleman, for damages sustained in an automobile accident at Coleman on September 5, 1953, when McGillivray was struck by a car driven by Hazel Ledieu of Coleman and owned by Anthony Ledieu.

McGillivray was awarded damages in the sum of $5,000 by Chief Justice McLaurin at Fort Macleod Discussion regarding this project ensued, and it was felt by all present that this project should be given a high priority. In regards to the representation on the Coleman Sports Association, it was found that the Board was short one member on this association—appointment to fill this vacancy was left in the hands of the president. The Jubilee meeting to be held on Thursday, March 31, was brought to the attention of the members and it was decided to send a representative to this meeting.

Monday closing came up for considerable discussion, as it was felt by some to be detrimental to good business, owing to the fact that many people, especially tourists, were going elsewhere for their purchases. This matter was tabled till next meeting.

Mr. J. Colwell informed the meeting on the operations of the C.N.P. Tourist Association, and stated that over 10,000 booklets and maps had been distributed during 1954. Further to this that U.S. Tourist Association had requested more information and booklets. This showed the effect of how well the C.N.P. Tourist Association had conducted the advertising of this area. Mr. Colwell stated that this month of April a campaign to raise funds for the Association would get under way under the direction of Mr. O. Celli, Association director for Coleman, and it was hoped that Coleman would support the Association as they have done in the past.

At this point a suggestion was put forward in regards to the issuing of courtesy cards to tourist traffic offenders, as it was noted that numerous places in Canada and United States had put this policy into effect. In brief this is how it works—A tourist violates a traffic law, but which involves no accident. The police hands the violator a card stating that they had violated law number so and so, and requesting that they be more careful. It was hoped that this method would help to increase tourist business in Coleman. Further investigation on this method will be undertaken by the Board of Trade.

Rodeo business was brought up briefly, and it was decided to leave this matter until the next meeting, at which time it was hoped that more members would be present. It was suggested that the next meeting be a mixed one, with the members bringing their wives.

This was left in the hands of the executive for consideration.

With no further business to be discussed, upon motion of Harry Boulton, seconded by W. Fraser, the meeting was adjourned, with the singing of "The Queen".

Miss J. Parker of Coleman, received a cultural "A" gold pin in recognition of her exceptional achievement in cultural activities. For the past four years Jean has been a member of the University of Alberta Mixed Chorus and during the 1954-55 session she acted as secretary of this well known organization. She is completing her fourth year towards her bachelor of education degree.

Ed Moser of Hillcrest, former employee of The Herald, received a gold Gateway "A" pin for his work as editor-in-chief of the university paper, "The Gateway".

Don Kirk, son of the Rev. J. Kirk, formerly of Coleman, was voted the outstanding athlete of the year. Kirk as kingpin of the collegiate winning Golden Bears hockey squad, picked up the Wilson trophy and the Purcell trophy as the most valuable hockey player. Don is at present completing his second year medicine.

Joe Kryczka of Coleman, was awarded a bar to his five inch "A", for his outstanding work as a defenceman on the Golden Bears. Joe received his first "A" award last year. It is his second year as a law student. His younger brother, Adam Kryczka, who is taking his first year toward an engineering degree, received a five-inch "A" for his outstanding abilities on the same team.

Harry Clarke Quits Coleman Coal Company

COLEMAN — Harry Wilton Clarke, general manager of the Coleman Collieries since its formation in January, 1952, leaves the employ of the coal company as of April 1st. Mr. Clarke has given no indication of his plans for the future.

Frank J. Harquail, managing director of Coleman Collieries, will assume both his present status with the company as well as take over Mr. Clarke's duties.

Prior to his taking over as general manager of Coleman Collieries, Mr. Clarke was the general superintendent of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company at Fernie, B.C.

On the occasion of his leaving the employ of Coleman Collieries, Mr. Clarke was feted at a party held at the home of Mr. Harquail in Hillcrest. The guest of honor was presented with a Roland Gising painting in oil by Mr. Harquail on behalf of the 49 persons present. Mr. Clarke ably thanked his many friends and expressed his regrets at leaving his position with the company.

Cup Winners Local Curling Club

Now that spring has finally arrived, although rather in a rough way, the thoughts of the local curler's turn to fishing, baseball and holidays. Brooms are being given their resting place until next winter, the tired ice is slowly melting, and curlers wives heave a sigh of relief. Now they may see their husbands more often, hear something else besides inturn, outturn, a wick-off, or the dam skip save me the wrong ice, or we should have won that game if so and so had played it this way. The soup bowls no longer clutter the front room floor as hubby tries to demonstrate to "wifey" how he played that certain shot. Now that the season is over, battered Trophy's and Cups will be proudly displayed on the mantle piece, just another reminder of the years to come, when the ice is fast, the boy's played the shot just right. Rinks who proudly carry home the bacon for this season were: The Freeman Cup, won by the George Jenkins rink; the McGillivray cup won by Chick Roughhead rink; and the Merchants Cup was won by the W. Fraser rink. Good going fellows.

Pass Students Get Varsity Awards

Of interest to Crow's Nest Pass residents is the fact that five former students of the Crow's Nest Pass were the recipients of awards given for outstanding performance and contributions to university life. The awards were presented at the Macdonald hotel in Edmonton on March 16.

Miss J. Parker of Coleman, received a cultural "A" gold pin in recognition of her exceptional achievement in cultural activities. ## C.G.I.T. Groups Meet In Coleman Elks Hall

C. G. I. T. groups from Pincher Creek, Hillcrest, Blaimore, Natal and Coleman, about 60 in number gathered in the Elks hall on Friday evening.

The address of welcome was given by Miss Gail Murdoch which was followed by grace being said by Rev. Blair MacPherson.

The groups then sat down to a very delicious supper. The head table was tastefully decorated and gaily centred with a large rabbit pulling an Easter egg laden cart. Guests for the evening were Rev. and Mrs. MacPherson of Bellevue, and Rev. R. Chubb of Blaimore.

Following supper, games and a sing-song were enjoyed by all. Reports of activities were heard from each group present. A skit was put on by each group present; also each group were identified by different colors and identification cards in the form of Easter bunnies were pinned on each girl, so that all could become acquainted before the evening was over. Easter eggs were also given as prizes for the games.

A worship service was held before a spot-lighted seven-foot silver cross in front of ice blue satin drapes consisting of story, a prayer and hymns. To round out the evening colorful slides of C.G.I.T. girls in camp and general activities were shown by Leslie Owen.

The Canadian Restaurant Association at its convention in Toronto last week, awarded Mrs. Kay Kerr of the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds at Frank, the first prize for all of Canada. Her Turtleburgers, a deluxe hamburger, in the shape of a turtle, with dill pickles for feet, captured the award in the culinary section of the cooking contest. ## Digging Saskatchewan history out of soil

REGINA.—Patient field workers with modern tools are digging Saskatchewan history out of the soil. From the crumbling ruins of scores of old forts and trading posts relics of the days of the explorers and pioneers are being uncovered.

Archaeologists have occasionally enlisted the aid of the army, with mine detectors, to find and mark the barricaded log structures that were regional headquarters on the march of civilization westward.

The project is part of province-wide observations of Saskatchewan's golden jubilee as a province.

No surface clues. About 200 places of historical significance will be marked before the job is done. No reorganization is planned because of the high cost.

The mine detector was brought into the search for Fort Carlton, built in 1810 by the Hudson's Bay Company on the north branch of the Saskatchewan river about 40 miles southwest of Prince Albert.

The earth had swallowed all trace of the fort. But with the mine detector, army personnel were able to trace the outline of the fort for as much as 100 yards without losing the signal. Rusted nails lying in the soil were the clues.

The mine detector may be used in the search for historic objects near Val Marie in southwestern Saskatchewan. Field workers have found a series of old trenches fortified by rocks, suggesting a forgotten Indian battle.

Famous carts

Historic sites are being marked by a rustic sign which tells the story of the site or by a Red river cart; sometimes by both. The carts are replicas of the famed two-wheeled conveyances which carried Saskatchewan's first settlers from the Red river valley.

They will be placed where the old prairie trails now are crossed by modern highways.

Among sites to be marked are the approaches to the Qu'Appelle valley, famed in Indian legend; the first oil and natural gas wells to produce in commercial quantities and the second meridian where it crosses No. 1 highway at Wapella—the base line for Saskatchewan's survey system, said to be one of the best in the world.

Archaeologists working near Morthach in southwestern Saskatchewan turned up evidence that the province has experienced wet and dry cycles for at least 3,000 years. Indian relics were found in a series of levels. Some were found to date back 3,400 years, the earliest trace of man in Canada. Bones and stone implements found were tested by the carbon process which measures the age of an object by the deterioration of isotopic carbon.

Modern farm marketing act for Ontario

TORONTO.—Agriculture Minister Thomas said recently in the Ontario Legislature that legislation to be introduced during the current session will result in the most modern farm marketing legislation yet drafted.

Mr. Thomas, the last speaker in the debate on the speech from the throne, said he will discuss in detail the problems in farm marketing during the budget debate.

"There has been some suggestion by the leader of the opposition that the farmers of Ontario were being sold down the river in the matter of the marketing of their products," said Mr. Thomas.

Proposed legislation would provide proof that statement was not true.

Reviewing the agriculture industry for the last year, Mr. Thomas said erratic weather conditions in the eastern part of the province and a drought in the western part resulted in some spoilage. However, the year was fairly satisfactory.

"While gross production of field crops was down from $208,358,000 in 1953 to $206,753,000 in 1954, in many cases increased farming efficiency helped bridge the gap to some extent."

U.S. testing fastest sub afloat

WASHINGTON.—The United States navy for the last year has been testing an experimental submarine which is believed to be faster for short runs than any other submersible afloat.

The submarine Albacore, a small 1,300-ton craft with a shape something like an elongated teardrop, may become the pattern for hulls of future nuclear-engined submarines.

The navy now has the atomic submarine Nautilus in operation and expects to launch a second, the Sea Wolf, next month. Five others are to be built under current appropriations or requests for appropriations.

The submerged speed of the Nautilus is officially reported to be over 20 knots (about 23 miles an hour).

A navy spokesman, in answer to questions, said the Albacore "is faster than the Nautilus for short periods of time, probably the fastest submarine ever built." But the Nautilus "has the fastest sustained speed of any submarine yet built."

He meant that the design of the hull of the Albacore makes possible high under-water speed for short periods of time while using propulsion from storage batteries and electric motor. But the "battery" power is exhausted in relatively short time by this full-power drive.

On the other hand, the Nautilus uses its main, atomic engine when submerged to provide steady power to the turbine drive. It can travel at full power on the main engine for days or even weeks.

The Albacore is nearer to a true fish-like form than most submarines, with all cross-sections circular and its exterior smooth except for the narrow conning tower. The Albacore, being entirely a test vehicle for hull design, carries no torpedo tubes or other armament.

Cunard orders fourth ship

MONTREAL.—The Cunard Steamship Company limited announced that they have an order with John Brown and Company (Clydebank) Limited for a fourth passenger and cargo ship for their Canadian service. This ship, which will be similar to the new 22,000-ton liners Saxonia and Ivernia, is expected to be delivered in 1957 and will be named Sylvania. The third ship of this class, which is expected to be launched toward the end of this year and delivered in the summer of 1956, is to be named Carinthia.

Raleigh high in assists

Don (Bones) Raleigh, New York Rangers' clean center and captain, is one of 10 players in the National Hockey League this season who had 30 or more assists on the morning of March 10. Raleigh's lifetime assist mark with the Rangers rates third among all players who have performed for the Manhattan club since it was formed in 1926. Frank Boucher and Phil Watson, the only other Rangers to have worn Sweater No. 7 which is the one Raleigh wears, are ahead of him. On the morning of March 10, Raleigh had a lifetime assists mark of 205. Boucher holds the Rangers record with 261, while Watson is second with 233.

Raleigh also holds the Rangers' record for most assists in one season. His 42 assists in 1951-52 is tops. Don has taken part in 501 league games for the Rangers. Only four players have played more games with the Rangers than he has. They are Ott Heller, 647; Phil Watson, 540; Frank Boucher, 532; and Murray Murdoch, 508.

Home Workshop

This cupola is 27-3/4 inches high without the weathervane, and is 16 1/2 inches wide at the bottom. It is made in three sections. The base is joined to the roof with angle irons and the birdhouse and roof sections are then added to it. The sides of the birdhouse are hinged for easy cleaning. The pattern gives actual-size cutting guides for the rafters and roof. The weathervane which is on a separate pattern may be cut out of wood or metal. The cupola pattern shows just how to save angles to fit any roof and to attach securely without any roof alterations. Pattern order patterns by number, 407 for the cupola and 241 for the weathervane. These patterns are 35c each.

This handy piece of utility furniture may be taken down and moved to camp or alone cottage by loosening a few bolts. Another important feature is that when the tents get too grown up for bunk beds this good-looking job may be cut apart. Notice that each corner post has a middle slanting to match the one on the top. The posts are cut just above this heading and presto you have twin beds. Actual-size cutting guides for all shaped parts are given on the pattern. The dimensions are for standard 39-inch twin bed springs. Send $5.50 and get this pattern 236 or send $1.50 and get the Children's Furniture Pattern of five standard size patterns including the bunk bed pattern 236.

Address order to: Home Workshop Pattern Service, 4133 West Fifth Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.

Record number of goalkeepers

Never before has the six-team National Hockey League used more goalkeepers than they have this season. Every club has had at least two different netminders with Montreal using four. There have been 15 goalies see action in hockey's major league this term. Toronto had Harry Lumley and Gil Mayer; Montreal had Jacques Plante, Andre Binette, Claude Evans and Charlie Hodge; Detroit had Terry Sawchuk and Glenn Hall; Boston has switched back and forth between John Henderson and Jim Henry; New York has used Lorne Worsley and Johnny Bower; while the three Chicago goalies have been Al Rolink, Hank Bassen and Ray Fredrick.

GARDEN NOTES

Flowers in vegetable garden provide source for bouquets

For bouquets for our own table and for giving to friends, garden authorities urge a special row for two of flowers in the vegetable garden. Given regular cultivation these will grow vigorously and the blooms can be cut often without marring the beauty of the regular flower garden.

Almost all fair sized flowers will do well under these conditions, and some like gladioli and sweet peas are best grown here in any type of foliage is not particularly attractive. It's a good plan to save a little seed in each packet from the regular planting and sow this in one or two long rows in the vegetable garden or along the edges. From this row there will be plenty of bloom for bouquets.

Building good soil

Ideal garden soil is a rich, well drained loam which never bakes or cakes, holds moisture well but is not muddy. Unfortunately few of us are lucky enough to find that right at the door. But so long as we have not pure rock, it is amazing what one can do. The best medicine for any soil, light or heavy, is a liberal application of old fashioned barnyard manure. But manure is hard to come by in these modern days and it's liable to be filled with weed seeds. And so most of us will have to turn to something else.

Fortunately there are many substitutes, commercial or chemical fertilizer, special soil conditioners, along the side of the soil is heavy clay, lime where it is sour, and humus anywhere. The latter we can make ourselves. It is simply rotted down vegetable refuse, like leaves, grass clippings, weeds and even clean garbage, this can be dug directly or piled in a corner, covered with layers of earth, watered occasionally and allowed to rot and then dug in.

Try something new. Usually on a special page of the seed catalogue will be listed brand new varieties and novelties. Among these will be the All-American winners for this year. These are new flowers and vegetables that in the North American field trials last year were awarded the most points. A few of these will certainly add color and interest to any border. Last year's was a new violet alysum and a new petunia, Comanche, that is red and stays that way.

The current campaign opened March 21, and will continue, on a province-wide basis, until Sunday, April 10.

In the vegetable lines there are a whole lot of improved productions. New, faster growing and crisper radish, more tender carrots, new beans, beets and corn. Over the years plant breeders have given us tremendous improvement in all vegetables. Not only are the varieties grown today far more tender than those of a generation ago, but they are also much earlier and more disease resistant. With these it is possible to have a good garden with much variety in areas where it was hardly safe to risk anything but the toughest things before. This progress has meant more to Canada than most countries' because our growing season is so short.

Premier praises Easter Seal campaign

REGINA.—The Easter Seal Campaign sponsored by the Rotary Clubs of Saskatchewan and conducted in co-operation with the school teachers and children, was commended by Premier T. C. Douglas.

"By its sixth annual appeal for the sale of Easter Seals, the Rotary Clubs are rendering a humanitarian service to those in our midst who have been the victims of crippling disease," he said.

Funds derived from this source will help to assure the continuation and expansion of rehabilitation facilities for the physically handicapped, including mobile clinics, the operation of two buses for the transportation of patients and summer camps for the younger people.

Premier Douglas also pointed out that in this Jubilee year, the citizens will want to contribute generously toward building a greater province and a happier, healthier people. This can be done in no better way, he said, than by supporting the Easter Seal Campaign.

The current campaign opened March 21, and will continue, on a province-wide basis, until Sunday, April 10.

Public grossly oversold on fluoridation declares professor of dental faculty

The public has been "grossly oversold" on what it can expect from the fluoridation of Toronto's drinking water, J. H. Johnson, a professor in the dental faculty, the University of Toronto, told a forum meeting at Bethhurst Street United church. "It is a cruel deception to imply to people that for 10 cents a year they will get the same dental protection which now costs them an average of $26 a year."

Dr. Johnson was speaking as a member of a four-speaker panel presenting the argument for not adding fluorides to Toronto's water at the present time. Those favouring fluoridation gave their views previously.

Evidence so far indicates fluoridation of water only benefits children up to eight or nine years of age, Dr. Johnson said. "It appears that from eight to 30 the fluorine does no good and simply stores in the system. There is no getting away from the fact its chief use today is as a rat and roach poison." He said there was no known safe dosage for fluorine.

Fluorine, he said, tended to harden the teeth. "It is quite possible this could lead to an increase in pyorrhea and an increase in the loss of teeth." Research has shown, he said, that fluorine tends to derive the body of calcium, weakening various organs. "We have ample proof and absolute evidence of damage fluorine has done to health in many cases."

May be harmed
Tolerance of fluorine varies from individual to individual, the chemist said. "Older people seem more sensitive to it. The chief danger in this biological variance," he said, "Many persons may be harmed by fluorine while the majority will not." He said it seemed foolish and expensive to add fluorine to water when it may harm many and could only benefit young children—one-eighth of the total population.

Dr. Ziedler said there was considerable difference between the fluorine found naturally in soft water and that added by men. "Natural fluorine is in an inactive state," he said. "Added fluorine is very active and active toxic." The chemist warned that treated water used in cooking could contain much more fluorine than the recommended minimum of one part in a million.

Dr. W. J. McCormick, a member of the American Academy of Nutrition, told the meeting there was no conclusive evidence that fluorine serves a useful purpose in animal life. "This has never been demonstrated," he said. In Massachusetts, a brewer was fined for adding fluorine to his beer, Dr. McCormick said. "The court called it a foreign non-nutritive substance." He told of a baby food manufacturer who recently reduced the fluorine content of his product from 11.2 to 2 parts per million.

Dr. McCormick told of an experiment conducted at a Texas university in which mice were given fluoridated water while a control group was given normal water. "The mice receiving untreated water developed 21 percent less cancer and their average life span was 10 percent longer," he said.

There is still much experimentation to be done, the doctor stated. "The full adverse effects of fluorine on mankind may not be known for many years."

E. C. Peters, Toronto lawyer, criticized this advocating fluoridation of water as "too far in advance of public opinion. For a group to impose on the majority their view of what should go into our stomach is sheer dictatorship and not democracy," he declared. He suggested the question should be put to a vote. "You can trust the people," Mr. Peters said. "The common sanity is what is needed—the common morality. We should be given the opportunity to vote on fluoridation before our right to a good old glass of water is interfered with."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

PALM SUNDAY FORESHADOWS EASTER GLORY

Palm Sunday, with its celebration of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem, its picture of the people thronged along Jesus' way, shouting their hosannas, is followed in our church calendar by Easter Sunday, again a day of rejoicing; this time in the Resurrection. The tragedy of the betrayal and the Cross fall in the days between. Glory and tragedy; doubt, suffering and sadness; then triumph and glory again. In this is the space of one short week.

With triumph of Jesus in His Resurrection, the events of this week are the most important in all the history and religious life of man.

The supreme importance of these events is as fact. Yet also they symbolize something that has continuously been in the history of mankind, and is particularly emphasized at the present time. Incredible as such a contrast seems in the few days between the hosannas of enthusiasm and the acts of violence, it is the way in which glory and tragedy have so often been intermingled in the affairs of men, but always lacking the complete fulfillment of the Resurrection.

One thinks of the great Crusades, with their pomp and zeal; the rallying of kings, the banding together of children.

Yet they were quickly followed by jealousies, betrayals, the sacrifice of the children, and the tragedy of defeat. These episodes contained the tragedy we find between Palm Sunday and Calvary's Friday—without the glory of the Resurrection.

Our hope and dream is that there will be, for mankind, a final Resurrection beyond all the glory and tragedy of this world; our faith is that from the palms and the Cross will come a Resurrection of triumphant glory, transcending all things earthly.

An early season track tip

If you are a jumper or sprinter, make sure you avoid running or jumping on hard pavement or ground. By doing a lot of running on very hard surfaces you will take much of the bounce out of your lower leg muscles. Do your running or jumping on grassy ground, a cinder track or fairly soft ground. Be very careful to run or jump on even ground because if you get on uneven ground it is very easy to pull a muscle; an injury that can bother you all year. So, stay off hard ground or pavement and train on level ground.

Other good games for a hockey player are tennis, soccer and lacrosse. If you are a goalkeeper, you should play lots of table tennis, badminton and handball.

Before-game sickness

Before-game sickness is caused by nervous tension. A little of this is nothing to worry about. It simply means that your glands are making your body ready for action by pouring out a discharge that will increase your physical efficiency. However, too much of it or too much thought given to it are not good things. Remember, if you control it, it is your friend; if you let it run wild, it can do you harm. When you look across at your opponent with your stomach

After effort

To replenish your energy and to have pep left for homework, the big date or any other activity after a hard workout, be sure to rebuild your energy reserve by including a large glass of orange juice, sweetened with honey or a fruit salad sweetened with honey in your after-activity meal.

On The Side: E. V. Durling

If a man does not try to kiss a girl on the first date it usually is because he is trying to be diplomatic. If he doesn't try to kiss her on the second date, that is not a good sign. It is possible he will not make a good husband. The men who make the best husbands are those who first the women they admire irresistible. On this all experts are agreed.

Disillusioned divorcees

In London there is a divorcees' club which is reported to be a very gay organization. The dances held by the divorcees are said to be especially entertaining. As far as I know, there is no similar club in the U.S. However, it was once reported a group of divorced men of Manhattan, who considered one matrimonial experience enough and were determined not to marry again, were organizing a "Fugitives' Club." The name was inspired by their being "fugitives from the matrimonial chain gang." Their insignia was to be a ball and chain, with the chain broken.

The democratic way

Do vote regularly? If not, how can you consider yourself qualified to complain about how the country is governed? In voluntary voting, the British top the world. Eighty-three percent of those eligible to vote in Great Britain do vote regularly. Sweden is next with 80 percent. Canada follows with 74 percent. The United States is down near the bottom of the list with only 51 percent of those eligible taking advantage of their voting privileges.

Licensed to drink

The bartenders of Phoenix, Ariz., no longer have to worry about unintentionally serving alcoholic liquor to minors by the system of judging a customer's age by appearance. Drinking licenses are required. So I am told by a subscriber who says her niece, a resident of Phoenix, has reached the age of 21 and has been given a "drinking license" which has her photograph on it.

For females only

Do you know what an "eyecatcher" is in advertising parlance? It is a line at the top of the advertisement designed to attract the reader's attention. One highly effective eyecatcher for feminine readers was a line reading, "She discovered the three telltale places where age shows first." Probably no woman who saw that top line failed to read the entire advertisement. Incidentally, what are the three telltale places where a woman's age shows first? I believe they are the neck, the hands and the elbows.

So You Think You Are Smart

(By R. N. Crippen)

How much blood does the human body contain?

The average normal adult human body contains from eight to 10 pints of blood. Of course, the quantity varies with the size and physical condition of the individual. Fat persons have relatively less blood than lean ones. Blood is composed of about 78 per cent water and 22 per cent solids.

Weighted measure for measure blood is slightly heavier than water. A pint of blood weighs about one pound and the number of pints of blood in a body can be computed roughly by dividing the weight in pounds by 12. Thus a person weighing 144 pounds has about 12 pints (or pounds) of blood; that is, the weight of the body in the average normal adult person is about one-twelfth or 8.3 per cent of the body weight. Normal healthy persons may lose as much as a third of their blood without fatal results.

What does "LIMITED" mean after firm's name mean?

Limited or Ltd., as used after the names of British firms is short for limited liability. It implies not that the number of members of the firm is limited but that their financial ability is limited. In a British limited bank or trading company the liability of each partner or stockholder is limited to the amount of his stock or shares, or to an amount fixed by a guarantee. The law requires that limited follow the names of the firm, except in cases of certain companies not organized and operated for profit. In the U.S.A. the nearest approach to the British limited company is the corporation. An American writes Inc. after the firm name, much as the Englishman writes Ltd.

What is a curtain lecture?

A curtain lecture is a private scolding received by a husband from his wife. By extension, any fault-finding, nagging or cavilling talk is figuratively called a curtain lecture. The term originated in the days of canopied beds surrounded by curtains. A curtain lecture was originally a scolding administered by a wife after she and her husband had gone to bed and had drawn the curtains. Dr. Samuel Johnson defined the phrase as "a reproof given by a wife to her husband in bed".

Well, fellows, we listened to the Grey Cup game and were really thrilled, but that was nothing to the picture of the game — that certainly was great.

Let's hope that more of these fine pictures can be obtained. I'm looking for some firm or maybe the National Film Board, who has filmed the World Hockey championship game between the Penitents 'V's and Russia. This will be something to see.

While we are talking about films, a great big vote of thanks must be extended to Bob Robinson of the Calgary Stampeder Football Club for making this film available to us. As I told you previously in this column we have been promised the return of this film on April 21. So if you wish to see it again, let us know.

For this week we will show the Canada Tour Film "Yukon" — this is another in outstanding pictures presented in this series. We see that the Dart committee are going great guns, especially in the men's division, BUT how about the ladies? Can't we get a mixed one. Come on fellows, let's have a mixed tournament — you can do it.

BINGO... who said that? Did you see the long face on Mr. Bingo on Friday, when six people binged at the same time? Oh, well, you can't expect him to win all the time.

We wonder if the lady who walked around her chair three times to bring her luck, got any closer to winning? Sorry, ladies, can't call all the numbers you need. That Jackpot — wasn't that a dandy. Two people at the same table, and better still, man and wife, with wife being so excited over her husband winning that she forgot to yell Bingo — that was too bad. Maybe next time, but at that she got even when she drew with him. Well, congratulations Jack Chalmers. — $50 is not hay these days. Watch for the date of the next Bingo.

Junior Red Cross Variety Concert Proves Success

(Lethbridge Herald)

BELLEVUE — A most successful variety concert, sponsored by the Bellevue Junior Red Cross and arranged by Mrs. Alice Buckna of Blairmore, was held in Bellevue in the I.O.O.F. Hall before an exceptionally large and responsive crowd, who expressed the view that the concert showed many signs of the talents the Crow's Nest Pass possesses.

Piano and piano accordion solos were given by the pupils of Mrs. Buckna. The program also included folk dancing by the Coleman Junior High School students, tumbling exhibitions by the Coleman High School physical training group, a vocal group under the direction of Mrs. A. Hill of Coleman sang a number of selections, tap dancing and an impersonation by Harold Hayashi of Sentinel, a clarinet trio and the Tiny Tots Square Dance group from the Maple Leaf School performed to add to the variety of the excellent concert.

The Junior Red Cross expressed thanks to the many persons who attended the concert.

Fashion Show is a Success

The Fashion Show, sponsored by St. Luke's Woman's Association on Tuesday, March 29th, in the Elks hall in Blairmore, was a huge success.

Mrs. Polly Purvis of Coleman, was the very able commentator, and much of the success of the show was due to the manner in which she commented.

The following stores co-operated fully with the ladies, namely: F. M. Thompson Co. Ltd., Kubic's Dry Goods, and Paul's Style Wear, donating many beautiful garments to be modelled.

The models performed in a very professional manner, modelling everything from children's wear and sportswear to bridal numbers, also afternoon dresses and cotton numbers. Tea was served during the showings.

The Anglican ladies hope to make this an annual affair, and want to thank each and every one who helped to make the Show such a success.

ATLIN, B.C.—When the Atlin highway was completed four years ago, this northern B.C. village adopted Yukon time, one hour slower than Pacific standard. ## There's something new under atomic 'sun'

In the light of the atom as pictured, below, problems are revealed which man's eye and mind are unable to handle with sufficient speed in this jet-propelled age. Judgment and sight serve well the Crossbowmen of Gubbio, Italy, right, right picture, who to this day split pegs dead-centre at 50 yards with missiles from their cumbersome weapons. For today's weapon, the modern military aircraft, super guidance is needed, and TRADIC, pictured beside the bowmen, is being readied to supply the answer. In finished form, the intricate computer will occupy less than three cubic feet of precious space in a modern military aircraft, help crew to solve navigational and other flight problems. Utilizing tiny transistors instead of bulky vacuum tubes, TRADIC (Translator - Digital-Computer) is being developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York City.

TRADIC, at left, supplies instant problem-solving ability for an age which still finds man's eye, mind geared to crossbow speed.

Shrouded in darkness, Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City, Utah, seconds later is silhouetted against atomic "dawn" from light of a nuclear explosion at Nevada Proving Grounds, some 370 miles distant.

ATOMIC AGE HOSPITAL—This strange-looking Washington structure is the Armed Forces' Institute of Pathology, constructed of concrete to withstand an atomic blast. Five floors are above ground and five below. No windows are on the side facing the centre of the city.

MAGNETIC SMILE—What makes these choppers different isn't a matter of appearance. Their magnetic appeal for prospective wearers comes from small, U-shaped magnets buried in back portions of both plates. Magnets oppose each other in polarity, forcing plates to make a snugger fit with the jaws. Displayed before the Chicago Dental Society, they're designed for mouths especially hard to fit.

RELIGIOUS NOTES FOR LIBRETTO—Father Alessandro Fellegretto, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Pity parish in the Bronx, New York City, displays a copy of his opera which was 30 months in preparation, "Il Fornaretto di Venezia"—"The Little Baker of Venice"—has a religious theme interwoven with its arias.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE PENNANT WINNER

—By C. A. LEWIS

JULY found the big rookie still on the club's roster. Bucky rang the bell pen and the kid unrolled his gangling neck, stretched from the splinters of the bench. Even above the noisy murmur of the Saturday afternoon crowd, Bucky could hear his fast ball smacking the catcher's mitt as he warned up.

Why couldn't the kid deliver when he took the mound? Bucky wished he knew—the club needed pitchers like a dirt farmer needs rain. Pitchers with a smacking fast ball like the big rookie's—pitchers that could put out a fire now and then. The kid had all that, had it all until the moment he walked out on the mound and pecked up the rosin bag.

Bucky was no psychologist, but he had judged enough ball players to know that something had the kid shook. Each time he had the daylight whammed out of him. With his foot on the rubber, with his long arms rocking with the pitch, something wilted inside the kid—and the ball floated plateward with "home-run" written all over it.

It made Bucky wince to think of it. Here comes murder, he thought each time as he motored to the bull pen for the kid. But each time he kept his fingers crossed, just hoping. Each time it was the same story. Wham! Wham! Wham! And the showers for the kid!

If the kid didn't come through today, it was curtains; back to the bush leagues, probably for good. A ball player either heeled a jinx quickly, or he never licked it. It just seemed to fall that way.

Bucky sighed. In the meantime he had a ball game before him, a ball game going wrong the way. If Lefty pulled out of the hole he was in, the kid probably wouldn't be needed. He'd hang on for another day. But from the looks of things, Lefty didn't have his usual stuff.

Two men on and the count three-two. Bucky waved to the umpire and stalked out to the third base line. Baccetti, the catcher, lifted the sweaty mask from his face and wiped his dripping brow.

"How's it look?" queried Bucky, keeping how he looked.

Baccetti shook his head. But when Bucky turned to stare down toward the bull pen, the big catcher shook his dark head even more emphatically.

Bucky went back to the dugout and Lefty picked up the rosin bag with a grin. But the tugging south paw needed more than a rosin bag and a grin, and the batter drilled a single over his head on the next pitch. Bucky motioned in the kid. He felt so badly about having to do it, that he broke one of his cardinal rules—he walked over and laid his arm about the kid's broad shoulder shoulders.

The bull pen's a little bigger out here, kid," he grinned, "that's all."

The kid nodded, his face pale, his lips compressed. He took a look around the mound for a moment, sort of hesitant, like he was searching for something. He kicked at the dirt.

"What's the matter, Kid?" The kid blushed, shook his head. "Nothin'." he mumbled.

"Nothin' a-tall?" He stepped onto the rubber and sang out in three. It cracked in Baccetti's glove like an 88 millimeter shell. He unloosed his arm again and threw the twin brother to the first one.

Bucky crossed his fingers and scuttled back to the dugout. For the first time since he came up the kid looked right.

"I think the kid'll do it today," Bucky breathed as he crowded into the dugout.

Lefty sat with his head between his knees, staring at the floor of the dugout, a towel around his sun-burned neck. He was tense and drawn.

"Come on, you can't have it every day," Bucky consoled him. He couldn't be mad at anyone the way the kid was singing them in to Baccetti—and anyway, wasn't Lefty the number one pitcher on the club? He was good for twenty games even with his bad days. The kid so far was zero.

"Look at 'em wheel 'em in there," he pounded Lefty. He began to smell a pennant sitting there waiting in the dugout. Zing! Zing! Zing! A second Johnson.

"Now what'd you suppose has unloosed him? Bucky queried in a daze to Lefty. He tried to think under the roar of the crowd. Then he remembered. Before the kid went in, he'd walked out and put his arm around his shoulder. Like a father, he'd done it. His heart suddenly swelled with pride. Just the dropping of his arm about the kid's shoulder.

A lump rose in Bucky's throat. The manager of a ball club gets to be pretty tough and hardened. He sometimes forgets that he once was a rookie. He forgets how to act toward a kid, that now and then he needs a pat on the back, a small gesture of encouragement. Bucky pulled out a handkerchief and blew his nose, sneaked a guilty look out of the corner of his eye toward Lefty.

Lefty no longer had his head between his knees, but was sitting there grinning. He tossed Bucky a rosin bag, the rosin bag that should have been out there on the pitcher's mound.

"You'd better stick that thing in your pocket for the rest of the afternoon—that is, if you like the way the kid's blazin' 'em in there!" "So that's what he was lookin' for," Bucky muttered, recalling the look the kid had taken when he first stepped onto the mound. "But—"

"That thing's worse'n poison to the kid," interrupted Lefty. His grey eyes were soft and steady. "The kid's buddy was blown sky-high by a Jap booty-trap that looked somethin' like it—on Truk, or somewhere. Been notice' he goes plumb to pieces every time he reaches for the rosin bag."

Then it wasn't that he'd put his arm about the kid's shoulder after all. Bucky swung around to Lefty. For the second time that afternoon a lump rose in his throat. "You mean you deliberately got yourself knocked out of there today?"

"We wanta win the pennant don't we?" grinned Lefty wryly.

Bucky nodded. But it was funny how they both knew that from today on Lefty had made himself the number two pitcher on the club.

New power plant on tap for Kindersley

REGINA. — The Saskatchewan Power Corporation will proceed immediately with the construction of a 6,000 kilowatt gas engine generating plant at Kindersley, Saskatchewan, according to an announcement made here by R. R. Keith, power production superintendent. Work is also proceeding on power expansion at Estevan.

"The Corporation has placed orders for two 3,000-kilowatt Cooper-Bessemer, spark-ignited gas engine generating units, which are to be installed in the new building at Kindersley, to be constructed this year, and designed to house three such units."

Work is also proceeding for the expansion of the Saskatchewan Power Corporation generating station in Estevan, Saskatchewan. This plant, utilizing Saskatchewan lignite coal, available in the same area, will have its installed capacity increased from its present 42,000 kilowatts to a total of 72,000 kilowatts by 1956.

The new installation at Estevan will include a new 30,000 kilowatt Metropolitan-Vickers turbo-generator.

Two boilers, having a capacity of 200,000 pounds of steam per hour, have been placed on order with Foster Wheeler Limited, St. Catharines, Ontario.

15 Killed 140 injured each week

More than 15 pedestrians are killed and 140 injured each week in Canada—many of them children—according to the All Canada Insurance Federation.

Officials of the federation which represents more than 200 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, said children should be taught the rules of safety when very young, both at school and at home.

According to insurance experts, examples set by parents and teachers are more effective in teaching safety rules to children than scolding or punishment. They recommended the following precautions for children:

- 1—Always walk facing oncoming traffic where there are no sidewalks. At night carry a flashlight or some easily-seen white object.
- 2—Watch carefully for cars turning corners.
- 3—Never jump on or off moving vehicles. Don't play behind parked cars or trucks.
- 4—Always look to the left and right before crossing street or leaving buses or streetcars.
- 5—Cross streets only at intersections, when traffic lights are green.
- 6—Never chase a ball into the street, or dart suddenly in front of cars.
- 7—Be particularly careful crossing streets in wet weather; cars require greater stopping distance when roads are slippery.
- 8—Police men will help you cross streets safely; obey them.
- 9—Always walk to and from school by the safest route.

BIG MUSKRAT CROP

The largest catch of muskrats ever taken in Saskatchewan is expected this season, R. A. Whitlock, southern district field supervisor, department of natural resources, said recently. This is due to the two factors of improved conservation practices and last season's favorable water levels.

750,000 HOMES

Since the end of World War II Canadians have built nearly 750,000 houses with a market value approaching eight billion dollars, sufficient residential building to accommodate about 3,000,000 persons.

Whooping crane display will be seen in Sask's. new natural history museum

REGINA.—One of the most popular displays at Saskatchewan's new museum of natural history when it opens officially this spring is expected to be a prairie marsh group, highlighting the whooping crane. Set up two years ago by the museum staff, the display is one of a few of its kind to be found anywhere on the continent.

This lofty white bird, so named because of the whooping call it makes, has been in the spotlight for several years as naturalists and others attempted to help in its fight against extinction. In spite of their efforts, however, its numbers have decreased until today there are only 21 left.

In viewing the display a visitor may easily imagine himself gazing through a giant picture window out over a large marshy lake in the flat open country of west-central Saskatchewan, after which the scene was patterned.

In the foreground are two adult whoopers and nearby a nest and eggs are placed in natural surroundings. The exhibit is designed to represent an area of hundreds of acres with many kinds of smaller birds congregating near the whoopers as if to show themselves off. Sprawling reeds and marshes lead off to the hills, and in the background the horizon and blue summer sky meet.

Picturesque setting Slough grass and sedges extend for what the visitor looking at the display for the first time would judge to be about a mile toward the centre where open water reflects the warm blue of the sky.

There are many smaller pools dotting the reed beds, making conditions suited to a large number of other birds of different families, which are also residents of Saskatchewan. Some of them shown include the shoveller, lesser scaup and blue-winged teal ducks; the western wild, marbled godwit and black terns, as well as marsh hawks, a sora rail, a pair of red-winged black birds, yellow-headed blackbirds and a western yellowthroat.

The observant visitor will see too a horned grebe on its nest, while a little further away coots are splashing in the water in such a lifelike manner that one can almost hear the croaking of frogs and the quacking of ducks.

The museum is closed to the public at present, while cases and articles are prepared for the move to the new location. Fred G. Bard, curator, points out, however, that anyone who comes from a distance or who has made arrangements in advance may still visit the museum.

Mr. Bard believes it is important for everyone to be made aware of the urgency of preserving the province's wildlife which he describes as "our wonderful heritage". A tour of the museum with its illustrated history book atmosphere, created by the many interesting articles of prairie fauna and Indian culture, sends most people away in agreement with his philosophy.

The viviparous lizard is the only reptile native to Ireland.

Assembling Canadian warships at Hamilton to train reserves

The largest number of Canadian warships ever assembled on the Great Lakes will be based at Hamilton this summer to train naval reserves from all parts of Canada.

A total of 16 ships ranging in size from 1300-ton Algerine escort vessels to 65-ton patrol craft will form the Great Lakes training fleet to provide sea training for 1,500 new entry naval reserves from 22 naval divisions.

Two-week cruises

The ships are scheduled to make a series of two-week cruises during which they will call at Canadian and American ports on the Great Lakes. The ships will leave on the first of these cruises in early June and on the last one in late August.

Heading the fleet will be two Algerine escort vessels, veterans of the North Atlantic convoy duty in the Second World War, HMCS Wallaceburg and HMCS Portage, at present based at Halifax. The Algerines are the largest warships which can enter the Great Lakes. Other ships in the fleet will include one Bangor class minesweeper, five fairmile patrol craft, three great vessels and five minesweepers recently completed under the navy's ship-building program.

The Algerines, the Bangor class minesweeper and three great vessels are expected in Hamilton in mid-May and they will join the five fairmile ships which are based at naval division on the Great Lakes. The five minesweepers will arrive late in June and will remain for two months to assist the other ships during the peak training periods from July 1 to September 1.

The Great Lakes are being used more extensively than ever be-
